

There you have more particulars for this gala event. John DeCesare spent lots of time creating the front page of this communication, as he did the last—and we thank him. Unfortunately, it was necessary to forego his terrific presentation style and run a less creative presentation. He saved to a disk and mailed the file, only when received it was incompatible with this computer’s programming—and he’s now sunning himself on a Mediterranean beach in his beloved Italy. That’s okay, John, the frustration this predicament presented was softened on a Cape Cod beach, where there was no waiting to pass through security to get there!

The list of classmates thinking about attending the 50th reunion grew some after the last mailing. Here’s the latest count. Hopefully the list will spark those we haven’t heard from into letting us know whether they’re a “Yes”, a “Maybe,” or a flat-out “No.”
